

Star Boy

THE STORY-DRIVEN SPACE-RPG FROM THE CREATORS OF ULTRAMAN

The year is 2112, and humanity has become a functioning interplanetary species. They inhabit Earth, Mars as well as several of the moons within their home solar system.

even with advances in communication and observation technology there has been no sign of other life in the galaxy, apart from an earth-like planet known as "Terrarium", located in a nearby solar system that's only twelve light-years away.

With recently discovered technologies that enable starships to travel faster than the speed of light the idea of reaching this planet has become a reality. Keen on expanding to all corners of the galaxy the United Planets of Humanity (UPH) have sent a starship to the new system.

"THE SECRETS OF TERRARIUM ARE NOT SO EASILY DISCOVERED"

Due to the length of the trip most of the crew members are put into a cryo-sleep to prevent any aging. William "Star Boy" Kirk is one of the many defense technicians aboard the ship. Upon landing William wakes up, only to discover that most of the crew has disappeared.

By Battling through thick, foreign jungles, climbing over mountains too tall to ever be found on earth, and crawling into the depths of the many ravines found along the planet's surface, and by building cities using the ship's supplies as well as the planet's abundance of raw materials William "Star Boy" Kirk is set on ensuring this alien world becomes a suitable home for him and his companions.

Eager to solve the mystery of his fellow crew and to ensure the safety of any survivors, the Star Boy leads the task of exploring the new planet, but danger waits around every corner and the secrets of Terrarium are not so easily discovered.
